Dementia friendly

Twenty-two Wake Forest professionals completed Dementia Friendly Work Training Friday at the Wake Forest Renaissance Centre. The program was co-developed by the Wake Forest Senior Information Network Group (SING-WF) and Dementia Friendly America. The training is for staff of business and service organizations. The program is intended to help an organization heighten its awareness of dementia and be equipped to respond warmly and effectively when serving people living with dementia and their families. Each organization participating in the training received a window cling to display at their business (which looks the poster displayed at center). It means their place of business is dementia friendly. Participants included, from left, (back row) Bill Harrison, Nick Gelormino, Ann Welton, Annette Rhodes, Teresa Hale, Shiloh Sickler, Seth Asbill, Jill Bright, Marlene Silva, Kati Hobson, Robert Rhoden, (front row) arla Payne, Catherine Marquis, Rich Perkins, Pandora Scmid-Gill, Elizabeth Cruz, Kim Dingus (Instructor), Tina Burnett, Kathy Uveges, Tanya Barrett and Katie Harbin.
